Training Experience

- 2000- Train-the-Trainer Model Development, Olweus Bullying Prevention Program.
- I have played a primary role in the development of a national trainer certification course (TCC) for the Olweus Bullying Prevention Program, an internationally recognized model for the prevention of bullying and other antisocial behavior among elementary and middle school children.
 - I have received funding from state and federal agencies (CSAP, CMHS) to develop and conduct this training model.

- The model consists of a 3-day initial training, ongoing, monthly telephone consultation, and a booster training.
- Colleagues and I have used this model to certify more than 1,300 national trainers in the Olweus Bullying Prevention Program since 2000.

1995- Training Development for School Staff, Olweus Bullying Prevention Program.

- I have played a primary role in the development of the 2-day training module for school staff in the Olweus Bullying Prevention Program.
- This training module currently is being used by the certified trainers noted above to disseminate this school-based prevention program across the United States (to date to more than 7,000 schools).

1995- Training to Education, Mental Health, and Law Enforcement Professionals.

I have conducted over 75 workshops for education, mental health, and law enforcement professionals in 8 states and the District of Columbia on the topics of aggressive and violent children, school-based prevention/intervention approaches for aggressive children, and school-based mental health programs (exclusive of the training in the Olweus program noted above).
